THE EASTERN STATES.

A PACIFIC COAST SWINDLING TRICK FAILS AT NEW YORK.

Paul Boynton Swims for Freedom—Sara Bernhardt Departs for La Belle France—And the Usual Hash.

(SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.)

NEW YORK, May [illegible].—Wm. Johnson, apparently a Californian, is a prisoner at police headquarters, charged with attempting to introduce in the city a peculiar western swindle. [illegible] Ellis, of No. [illegible] South street, [illegible] business. Johnson presented to him letters of introduction from the president of the board of trade at Stockton, California, and other well known business men in the West. The letters, however, [illegible], were addressed to bank presidents and others in the city, and spoke of the bearer as a man of integrity and honor. Mr. Ellis accordingly treated his visitor with much consideration. On Monday Johnson called on him and proceeded to tell a long story about saving the life of a burglar who had robbed the bank of California and who told him where gold was buried, and he now sought Mr. Ellis' advice, asking him to go with him to see the gold, which the burglar wanted in gratitude to share with Johnson. This made Ellis suspicious. He made an appointment for the next day and had detectives to attend to the matter. Ellis and Johnson at the Compton house. Johnson showed him a gold brick and said that he had eighteen more bricks worth $[illegible] apiece, which he would sell for $7500 each. Mr. Ellis seemed anxious to close the bargain, but objection was made, as he did not have all the gold there. Another meeting was appointed, and Ellis left with Johnson when detectives arrested Johnson. The prisoner has been to make the gold bricks, which is [illegible] of base metal with one [illegible] of genuine gold and across the middle a streak of bullion through which a saw [illegible]. Johnson gave his age as 39 years, and his residence as No. [illegible] West [illegible] street. It is believed that other persons less sharp and less fortunate than Mr. Ellis may have been swindled.

The Right Man.

NEW YORK, May 3.—A Times editorial: Having gone to Washington with a fixed impression that the contract division of the postoffice department was a nest of corruption and with the fixed determination to lay bare its secrets, the postmaster general selected Mr. Woodward as the man whom he knew could be thoroughly trusted with the work in hand. The ring have already found out that he made an excellent choice.

A Failure.

NEW YORK, May 4.—The Herald says: The sense of the city and those outside has been so fully taken upon a proposal to have the international world's fair in New York to be held in 1883, that there need be no misapprehension as to public opinion. The idea is not popular nor does it grow in popularity. The wisest plan now is to abandon it altogether.

Croton Water.

The same paper has a sensational article on impurities affecting croton water which have so long created uneasiness among citizens of New York, in which it ascribes the present unpleasant odor and taste to drainage from slaughter houses, pig pens, manure heaps and worse places.

Passenger and Freight Business on the Atlantic.

The extraordinary depression in rates of freight now ruling from New York to Europe is made up in a great measure to the steamship companies by the prosperity of their passenger traffic. Never perhaps were their saloon passenger lists from here to Europe so well filled. Never had they a larger number of emigrants coming from the other side. The profits upon passenger tickets will in some measure atone for having to take grain at 2½d and 3d per bushel, and heavy freight at 7s 6d@12s 6d per ton.

About Chinamen.

Ah Sam, a Chinaman who was stabbed in Spring street by a young Italian April 24, died in St. Vincent's hospital today.

Ah Sing, steward of the ship Anahuac from Manila, has brought suit in the marine court in this city to recover $2000 damages from Capt. [illegible], for unlawfully depriving him of his liberty and rights.

The Bakers' Strike.

The striking bakers declare that the bosses are yielding every day and that complete surrender by them is inevitable. Bosses on the contrary declare that they have more applicants for the places of the strikers than they can find work for, and they will not take back the strikers.

Sara Homeward Bound.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Sara Bernhardt and party sailed today for France.

Railroad Rumors.

Yesterday afternoon an arrangement was made touching the Iron Mountain and Texas Pacific which was not thought of in the morning. It is a [illegible] to the Missouri Pacific, which has [illegible] cent. on its stock during the past year, of a controlling interest in the Iron Mountain, giving 4 shares of the Missouri Pacific for 5 shares of the Iron Mountain. This leaves the door open to take in the Texas Pacific. Many friends and friends of the latter say that the terms will be better than those of the Iron Mountain. The International and Great Northern [illegible] is merged into the Missouri, Kansas and Texas, which will be controlled by the Missouri Pacific as well as the Texas Pacific.

Little Cause for Complaint.

NEW YORK, May 3.—The Sun says: Both the press and the bar of San Francisco express indignation at the intention of the judges of the higher courts of that city to take two months vacation during the summer, in view of the practice in other states and particularly in those of the Atlantic coast. This protest is somewhat of an anomaly in this city, where judges are paid about four times as much for services as those of San Francisco, and where the summer vacation lasts from the latter part of June to the first Monday in October. Besides this, part or the whole of one week in every month is practically vacation time with the judiciary, and they never sit on Saturday with the exception of one judge in each court for two or three hours at chambers to make orders and listen to other minor applications. The press and bar of San Francisco ought to look eastward to see how judges do in other places, and they will come to the conclusion that they have comparatively little cause for complaint.

An Operatic Scandal.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Members of De Beauplan's French opera were thrown into a state of wild excitement last night by the announcement that Tournie, tenor of the company, had eloped with Madame Ambre, soprano, and wife of the manager. Beauplan also disappeared tonight, and it was believed by many members of the troupe that the elopement was part of a plan to rob other singers of their salaries. Several members of the company, among whom was the wife of Tournie, visited the police headquarters and sought the aid of the police in securing the missing singers.

American Colony for Sonora.

NEW YORK, May 4.—The ship load of emigrants who were recently reported to be preparing to join the proposed American colony in the Mexican state of Sonora will be interested in hearing that the land grant on which they propose to settle is occupied by Indians of powerful physical build, brave and warlike temper, and with resolute disposition to hold their domain by force of arms if necessary against all comers. The Mexican government in granting fifty leagues of fruitful territory to two residents of California, Samuel Brannan and Manuel Castro, partly in liquidation of a claim and partly for the purpose of founding a colony, did not grant possession of the territory as well for the very good reason that it never had it and is not likely to get it for some time to come. Sonora is a beautiful, rich and fertile territory, but whoever proposes to settle it must fight for existence and is pretty sure to have his hands full.

Paul Boynton Makes Good Use of his Skill in Swimming.

Capt. Paul Boynton arrived yesterday. He said that he had been engaged under Piecolo in the Peruvian service and been captured by the Chilians. He escaped by the aid of some friends and swam out to an English steamer, on board of which he was taken. He came [illegible] under a false name and with false papers.

Fire at Warren, Ohio.

CINCINNATI, May 3.—The Commercial's Warren (O.) special says: A fire destroyed the Douglas machine works. Loss, $60,000; insurance, $6,500.

Railroad Accidents.

DALLAS, TEX., May 4.—A freight train on the Texas Pacific went through a bridge today, killing Engineer Saunders and Fireman Dooley, and wounding Conductor Honor and a brakeman. In another wreck at [illegible] on the same road Engineer Jones, a brakeman, and J. E. Henderson, a Dallas telegraph line contractor, were killed.

Beecher Ordered to Show Cause.

BALTIMORE, May 4.—Henry Ward Beecher in passing through to-day was served with a summons to appear and answer in a suit against him by the Western Maryland Agricultural Fair for failing to perform his part of a contract, which bound him to lecture before the fair last October. Beecher took the affair good humoredly.

The St. Louis Flood.

ST. LOUIS, May 4.—The situation in East St. Louis is becoming more and more critical, and unless the river ceases to rise, of which there is no immediate hope, the entire city will be submerged.

Troops Going to the Country.

CHEYENNE, May 4.—Two companies of the 3d cavalry left Fort Russell today for White river. Two companies of cavalry also left Fort Sanders and two left Fort Steele, all for the same destination. Trouble with White river Utes is anticipated, and the government proposes to overawe or crush the Indians at the start.

Duel at Orleston, Ohio.

[illegible], May 4.—George [illegible] and [illegible] fought a duel at Orleston, Ohio, yesterday. Both were mortally wounded. The sheriff arrested both parties.

Casualty at Littleton, N. H.

[illegible], May 4.—A [illegible] connected with the [illegible] house, [illegible] [illegible] Cross and Daniel [illegible].

[illegible]

Race at Nashville.

NASHVILLE, TENN., May 4.—First race, [illegible] stakes, [illegible] Boot Jack, second; Ballarat, third. Time [illegible].

A Desperate Wretch.

[illegible], May 4.—Advices have been received [illegible] and another man with whom he was [illegible] trial, and [illegible] county war shot him to the [illegible].

Fire.

[illegible], May 4.—Fire in [illegible] $50,000.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Villard Sure of the O. & C. R. R.

LONDON, May 4.—A letter received here from the [illegible] of the Oregon & California railroad says of President Villard's plan for reorganization of the road, that it is certain of acceptance at to-morrow's meeting, as the agent will vote on considerably over five millions worth of bonds. The Frankfort committee will continue its control and supervision over the roads until the bondholders' association is dissolved on completion of reorganization.

Dillon's Arrest and other Matters.

LONDON, May 4.—The speaker will communicate the fact of the arrest of Dillon to the house of commons today. In consequence of Dillon's arrest it has been determined to revive the anti-coercion agitation.

Conference of English radicals is being arranged for that object. It is rumored that Dillon will, in accordance with the resolution of Parnellites before the passage of the coercion act, resign his seat in parliament. A monster meeting of electors of Tipperary will probably be held, Archbishop Croke presiding, for the purpose of protesting against the arrest of Dillon. Parnell is expected to attend. In consequence of the arrest of Dillon, Parnell has advised his followers to abandon their present attitude toward the land bill and vote against the second reading. A committee of 14 gentlemen from Ulster is sitting at Westminster watching the land bill with the object of securing its adoption after certain amendments.

Effect of Dillon's Arrest.

DUBLIN, May 4.—Dillon's arrest has not caused the slightest excitement in any part of the country. On the contrary, it seems to have a quieting effect. Some of the warmest friends of tenant farmers condemn Dillon's speeches in the strongest terms.

A Land League Manifesto.

LONDON, May 4.—A manifesto of the national land league of Great Britain, touching the arrest of Dillon, has been issued. It is signed by Justin McCarthy. It urges Irishmen of Great Britain to evict their landlords as they themselves have been evicted, and to wreak vengeance at the polls on apostates from liberalism whom they helped raise to power.

Another Arrest.

Michael Breen has been arrested near Clifden, county Galway, on a charge of inciting to murder.

The Prince on his Travels.

The Prince of Wales starts for Vienna to-night to attend the marriage of Prince Rudolph.

House of Commons.

In the commons the speaker said that he had received official notice from the lord lieutenant of Ireland of the arrest of Dillon.

Thomas P. O'Connor asked several questions touching the abuse of authority. Forster, chief secretary for Ireland, did not answer the questions.

Healy gave notice of his intention to move to add Dillon to the committee of conservancy of rivers.

A Home Rule Motion Carried.

In the commons last night, Blennerhassett, home ruler, moved a resolution in favor of abolishing the power of levying distress for rent on agricultural holdings in Great Britain and Ireland. The government supported the resolution and it was agreed to without division.

Temperance Reform Proposed in Wales.

In commons, a bill for closing bar rooms in Wales on Sundays was read a second time; 163 to 17.

Gladstone and his Party and the Beaconsfield Memorial.

LONDON, May 4.—The Post says: Resistance of the section in the commons which owes peculiar loyalty to Gladstone is either a singular proof of a lack of discipline or indicates a doubt of sincerity which we should be the last to attribute to Gladstone. It would not be decorous that the qualifications of the late Lord Beaconsfield for a place in Westminster abbey should be the occasion of painful dissension between Gladstone and an influential section of his following who were mainly instrumental in placing him in power. Some conservative papers declare that Gladstone himself is opposed to the memorial, and that a motion for the erection of the memorial was introduced at the wish of the queen. It is officially shown that the queen has expressed such a wish.

It is understood that opponents to the Beaconsfield memorial have represented to Gladstone that the vote on the measure ought to be postponed until after the second reading of the land bill. Debate on the land bill is likely to continue the present week. Some conservatives believe that postponement of the memorial question is directed in order to [illegible] [illegible].

The Bradlaugh Case.

LONDON, May 4.—[illegible] [illegible] delayed.

Herr Most Indicted.

LONDON, May 4.—The grand jury indicted Herr Most, publisher of the Freiheit, for inciting murder. They declared such publications as Freiheit and say that they ought to be severely dealt with.

Dillon to give up his Seat.

It is stated that Dillon will vacate his seat in parliament, and that Patrick Egan will succeed him.

Races at Newmarket.

LONDON, May 4.—At Newmarket the race for 2000 guineas was won by Peregrine, Lorillard's Iroquois 2d, Lamb's Don Fulano 3d. Nineteen ran.

May stakes were won by Benoit; Lorillard's Wallenstein 2d, [illegible] 3d.

The Prince of Wales' stakes was won by Mistigris; Apollo 2d, Dollas 3d.

Victims of the Explosion.

LONDON, May 4.—Victims of the explosion at the shoppee near Doteral number eight officers and 143 men killed. All perished except 11.

Suspicions Founded on a Mere Rumor.

LONDON, May 4.—A semi-official journal of St. Petersburg reports without qualification the statement of a Russian courier about a Russian escort going to Cabul with the family of Abdurrahman Khan, the ameer of Afghanistan. If this statement is correct, it seems difficult to reconcile it with the orders of the late czar that no visits of Russian troops to Cabul should be allowed, or with the wish of the present czar to cultivate friendly relations with England regarding Central Asia.

North Africa.

TUNIS, May 4.—The prime minister on learning of the French occupation of Biserta summoned the principal religious bodies to a conference, and they afterwards proceeded to Kerouan with the object of preaching a holy war. Several sheiks who were preaching a holy war have been arrested and brought to Tunis. The bey has returned to the Bardo palace, believing that he is unsafe in an ordinary residence.

The Sultan to the Bey.

It is asserted that the Sultan has telegraphed the bey instructing him to refuse to entertain any proposal of French protectorate, and if offered, to refer France to the porte.

Business Failure.

[illegible] & Stalle, of Amsterdam, old established merchants, chiefly engaged in the coffee trade have failed; liabilities large.

Agitation in Russia.

BERLIN, May 4.—There is much agitation in the Baltic provinces of Russia among peasants who desire absolute ownership of land now held on lease. Lutheran pastors in many parts of Estland have refused to administer the oath of allegiance to the czar or did so with manifest reluctance. The local press freely expresses the opinion that the government is incapable of contributing to the prosperity of the country and regrets that former advocates of separation have left no worthy successor. Handbills have been distributed at Revel, calling upon inhabitants of Baltic provinces not to swear allegiance until the czar has granted them laws and land rights equal to those possessed by the Russian people. It urges the people to remain united, but to refrain from open rebellion. A manifesto has been circulated at Vladimir court and says: "Let the people refuse to swear allegiance to the czar before Russian officials. We cannot longer be deceived like dogs. We must remain firm. We despise and denounce the nobility, that they may disappear from Estland like snow in spring. Whoever tears down this notice risks his life."

ST. PETERSBURG, May 4.—It is the intention to abolish public executions.

A person has been arrested for posting revolutionary proclamations appealing to workmen in Krementschug and Paltava railway shops.

The governor of Moscow has considerably increased the stringency of regulations so as to prevent lodging houses from harboring any persons without knowledge of the police.

A Nihilist Agent Visits the Czar.

PARIS, May 4.—The conditions on which the nihilists are willing to cease their agitation were communicated to the czar by a delegate of the revolutionary committee. The czar listened to all the messenger had to say and then had him arrested.

A Duel.

PARIS, May 4.—A duel has taken place at Vesinet between Malato, an Italian, and Pons, a Frenchman, both fencing masters, arising from a quarrel in a fencing school. Malato was wounded in the hand and wrist.

Commercial Treaty.

LONDON, May 3.—Negotiations for a new Anglo-French commercial treaty begin to attract much attention. The existing treaty will expire in November, and if a new treaty is not concluded and ratified between now and the dissolution of the chamber of deputies, England will in November be confronted with a general tariff, which will be almost prohibitive. Her only means of self protection will be retaliatory duties on French wines, brandy, silk and articles de Paris. The French, although apparently desirous to make a new agreement, insist strongly upon the abolition of all valorem duties. Such a persistence endangers the whole scheme of the treaty, as specific duties are believed by English to have been most unfairly [illegible] [illegible].

The Road to Baker City.

The Baker City Reveille publishes the following letter [illegible] [illegible] Respectfully yours,

H. VILLARD.

The Reveille adds this comment: All doubts hitherto entertained as to whether Villard would act in good faith or not—as to whether his heavy interest in the Northern Pacific would cause him to stop work on the Baker City road or not, ought now to vanish. Everybody interested directly or indirectly, contingently or remotely, can now take such steps in business matters, here and elsewhere on the line, as they may deem best, with the positive assurance of Mr. Villard—who sustains the character of an honorable and honest man—that the road will be completed in about the time specified. We repeat what we have several times already said, that Baker City and Baker county are on the threshold of a career of material prosperity such as they have never before enjoyed.

NATIONAL MATTERS.

THE SENATE DEAD-LOCK BROKEN AT LAST.

A Few Nominations Confirmed by General Consent—Probabilities in Regard to Robertson, Matthews, Chandler and others, etc.

(SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.)

WASHINGTON, May 4.—A motion for executive session was made by Dawes, who in making it remarked that by so doing he and his associates were giving up the fight for the officers, which he considered of less vital importance than matters of great importance to the welfare of the government, and involving the right of the majority to rule.

Pendleton asked Dawes to withdraw that motion for a few moments, which Dawes courteously refused to do.

Beck suggested to Pendleton that it would be more decorous for him to discuss the characters of Riddleberger and Gorham when the doors were closed.

Dawes' motion was then agreed to—ayes 30, noes none.

When the doors reopened, the senate adjourned.

The Chinese Treaties Considered.

Discussion of the Chinese treaties was, as usual, [illegible] to Hoar in opposition and Miller and Jones of Nevada in advocacy. The discussion was not finished when the senate adjourned till to-morrow.

Spirit of the Session.

The executive session was quiet. The democrats are not exultant, but regard this as a break of the deadlock and expect to adjourn in three weeks. The republicans deny it strictly and say that they will continue all summer if necessary.

Garfield Declines to Leave Washington.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—President Garfield, being invited by the centennial committee to accompany them to Yorktown to-morrow on a government steamer, the president expressed great regret that he would be obliged to decline the invitation. As the senate had now resumed the transaction of business, he did not feel at liberty to leave Washington at present.

Garfield on Brady's Letter.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The president to-day speaking of the letters which he wrote to Brady and which the latter has intimated contain compromising matter, said that there was nothing in them that he feared to see published, that star route contractors were neither mentioned nor thought of, and he simply expressed the hope that Brady, a citizen of Indiana, who was reported to have made an immense fortune in telephone stock, would respond from his ample means in aid of his party in the life and death struggle then going on in his own state.

The Pending Nominations.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Under agreement of the republican caucus the "contested" nominations only apply to Robertson's case, Chandler's nomination will be surely acted upon. A senator who has taken an active part in organizing the opposition to Chandler says that Conkling, Logan, Bayard, and Lamar, and probably Judge Davis, of the judiciary committee, will vote for an adverse report. Edmunds and Garland are absent. Ingalls and McMillan are counted by Chandler for a favorable report. Judge Davis has not expressed himself, but four out of seven members are sufficient. All the democrats and six republicans, namely Conkling and Platt of New York, Cameron of Pennsylvania, Logan, Jones of Nevada, and Mitchell together with McDonald are classed as opposed to Chandler. Logan was asked by George, who was going away, to pair with Chandler, and said that he could not, as he intended to vote against Chandler. The rule of reporting from senators that [illegible] of the senator from his state to which a nomination belongs shall send such information, [illegible] apply to Chandler, Stanley Matthews or Sheldon, as the two former are nominated to national positions and Sheldon for governor of a territory. Senator Sherman has given to Sheldon's friends assurance that he will not antagonize Sheldon but will content himself with voting against him. Matthews' friends claim a majority for him and assert that the judiciary committee have agreed to report the nomination, so it is plain that Robertson is the only nomination that will be laid [illegible]. Under this agreement the president is not to fear interference with the senator's prerogative by making any contest for Robertson's [illegible]. [illegible] of the senate know from the president himself that he is desirous of having the nomination acted upon, and they [illegible] before it will come up. It is reported that Senator Hawley has expressed his [illegible] [illegible] the case if there is any chance to [illegible] Robertson. Now that the senate has resumed [illegible] [illegible] the president will [illegible] [illegible].

Conkling's Unfairness.

NEW YORK, May 4.—The Tribune's Washington correspondent on the deadlock says: It is reported that six or seven senators will vote against Robertson's confirmation, including Farley and Frye with Fair in doubt. The correspondent continues: It is understood that Conkling has made a considerable impression upon republican senators by causing it to be believed that Robertson is personally unfriendly to [illegible], and it is asserted that it is impossible for any future friendly relations to exist between them. It is believed, however, that this impression has been considerably weakened by Conkling's course during the last few days, which, it is said, has been such as to produce considerable resentment among republican senators, who believe that he has taken advantage of the president's situation for his own ends and against the administration.

Dorsey Again.

NEW YORK, May 4.—A Tribune's Washington special says: Dorsey, with Bob Ingersoll as counsel, visited James to-day on the Star route business, demanding investigation, which, of course, James could not accede to. Dorsey will publish another card on the subject soon.

The California Renegade out of Favor.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—So disgusted have republican senators become with Gorham, that it is more than doubtful if he could now receive the nomination which was tendered to him by the republican caucus, six weeks ago. One republican senator, Hawley, distinctly said in the caucus yesterday, that he is very much opposed to the election of Gorham, and it is known that at least a dozen senators entertain the same sentiments, although they refrain from expressing themselves in caucus. Several congratulated Hawley, however, after adjournment, and asserted their approval of his stand.

Assayer Appointed.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The president has nominated Elliott C. Jewett of Missouri, assayer in charge of the assay office at St. Louis.

Gunswork.

The president's letter to Dawes, denouncing Gorham, has, however, crystallized opposition to him among stalwart republicans, and it is now believed that they will again unanimously contest for Gorham's election.

Efforts to Prevent the Immigration of Women to Utah.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The state department is considering the question of Mormon immigration with a view to check and diminish the influx of imported female converts. The administration is desirous to effect this result but the means to be adopted are unknown as yet. Whether the act of March 3, 1875, passed to prevent Chinese women, which makes it unlawful the immigration of women imported for immoral purposes, is applicable to this class, is unsettled. Should it be decided not to, additional legislation will be recommended next session.

Confirmations.

The senate to-day confirmed Robert Hitt of Illinois, assistant secretary of state; Hiram Price of Iowa, commissioner of Indian affairs; A. M. Jones, U. S. marshal for northern Illinois; Z. Ericson, of Wisconsin, associate justice of the supreme court of Dakota; Wm. H. Craig, postmaster at Albany, N. Y.; Wm. Mullilly, postmaster at Bristol, Tennessee; Thomas P. Black, collector of customs at St. Mary's, Georgia. All these were confirmed by unanimous consent.

Bonds and Interest Thereon.

Six per cent bonds received at the treasury department to-day for continuance at 3½ per cent., $1,734,550; total since the decision of the secretary, $66,474,400. Final payment of interest on outstanding 6 per cent bonds 1881, recently anticipated to cover all such bonds which might be presented for continuance at 3½ per cent. previous to May 10th, has brought a large amount of bonds in the aggregate, interest already paid thereon amounting to about $800,000. Five per cent bonds embodied in the one hundred and first call are now being forwarded for redemption with interest to May 21st, the date upon which the call matures. In the event of the entire amount of outstanding sixes, nearly $190,000,000, being presented for continuance at 3½ per cent., there will be nearly $5,000,000 payable by the treasury department by the 10th inst. In addition to this there is $5,700,000 interest on 5s of 1881, which fell due May 1st, and is now being paid by the treasury, and about $1,000,000 of bonds under the 101st call remaining unredeemed, which are payable on presentation at the department, making in all more than $20,000,000, which will probably be paid out of the treasury on these three accounts alone during the present month.

MEXICO.

Trouble Pending in Mexico.

NEW ORLEANS, May 4.—The Picayune, usually considered authority on Mexican affairs, anticipates trouble from the enormous subsidies which her present rulers are granting railway and other schemes, it being utterly impossible that she can meet the heavy drain on her treasury and resources, or that the people will remain quiet under the strain. At the lowest calculation, the sum of subsidies already granted railways, in addition to [illegible] [illegible] to the city of Mexico and the [illegible]. When the millions and tens of millions of money are drawn out of the country to help pay for these vast schemes, the administration which lays these burdens will [illegible] a powerful party arrayed against it. The United States will be called upon to protect its citizens in their contracts and preserve their property from destruction, and conquest will likely follow. Bankruptcy or enormous taxation is inevitable if subsidies are to be met, and in either case it is morally certain that we shall have a recurrence of popular discontent which will need but little prompting to run into revolution.

THE CHINESE TREATIES.

CONSIDERED BY THE SENATE—HOAR VS MILLER AND JONES.

The Massachusetts Senator Discomfited—Miller Presents an Exhaustive and Forcible Plea.

(SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.)

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The discussion of the Chinese treaties [illegible] [illegible] progressed, nevertheless sufficiently to inspire [illegible] confidence that the treaty will be ratified promptly and without amendment. Senator Miller's carefully prepared speech in support of the treaty was a strong, logical exposition of its purpose [illegible] need not be rehearsed to Pacific coast readers [illegible]. Senator Hoar's speech, which was [illegible] the familiar doctrine of the "Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man," from which he attempted to deduce as a [illegible] the somewhat [illegible] that every man on the face of the earth has the [illegible] right to take up his abode in any foreign country regardless of the wishes of its [illegible], and the United States by [illegible] would violate the principles of the declaration of independence and fundamental theory of our free institutions. He also of course denied that there is any cause for alarm in the hundreds of Mongolians, and generally belittled the alleged necessity for guarding against an apprehended increase in the future, in precisely the same manner that he [illegible] the passage of the 15 passenger bill two years ago.

He was from time to time subjected to a raking fire of troublesome questions by Jones of Nevada and Miller, and the latter in one instance [illegible] forced him to the great amusement of the senate as follows: The Massachusetts senator had just brought one of his glowing periods to a close with the scriptural quotation "[illegible] hath made of one blood all nations of men to dwell on the face of the earth," when Miller interrupted, [illegible] quote the remainder of the sentence. "There is no more of it," said Hoar. "Oh yes there is," replied Miller, "for the apostle Paul said in addition to the words which the senator has quoted, and hath determined the bounds of their habitation." This [illegible] turning of the tables was greeted with laughter from all parts of the senate, upon which the Massachusetts senator [illegible] attempted to question the accuracy of the quotation. Miller quickly procured a copy of the bible and turning to St. Paul's speech read the whole passage and the senate roared again at Hoar's discomfiture.

Senator Farley in the course of the day [illegible] stated his past and present position in regard to the treaty, saying in substance, that although he was still of the opinion that it is practically of no value, and even worse in some respects than the Burlingame treaty, he had nevertheless concluded that as the people of California desired its ratification, and as it would doubtless be imperilled by sending it back to China, he would make no opposition to its immediate ratification without amendment; but [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible]. Opinions were expressed that a vote will be reached on the question of ratification tomorrow or next day, but it will not probably be [illegible] before the senate adjourns over Sunday. The discussion assures its ratification by a large majority.

THE SILVER CONGRESS.

Questions to be Submitted to the Next Full Session.

PARIS, May 4.—Messrs. Evarts and [illegible] have [illegible] their proposals as the committee [illegible] questions of [illegible]. The committee has adopted the following programme, submitted by Vernon [illegible]:

First—Have diminution and great [illegible] in the value of silver which have occurred [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the ratio of value between the two metals [illegible] [illegible].

Second—[illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Third—[illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Fourth—[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the same privileges in countries where there is no chartered bank of issue [illegible] [illegible] [illegible].

Fifth—[illegible] the ratio between the [illegible] of gold and silver contained in the monetary units.

The programme will be submitted at the plenary sitting to-day, when [illegible] Evarts [illegible] respectively.

Carlyle and his Varieties.

Advice for the Independent Party.

[From the Albany Journal.]

A dispatch from Independent [illegible] says that Rev. Mr. Davis has reached home and that he will shortly leave for California. As an inducement, Mr. Davis might feel authorized to run the risk of meeting Indians, to ride on the box with one of the typical stage-drivers of the Rocky mountain regions, to venture to the dizzy heights of the Yosemite [illegible] during his entire space. But it would not fail to occur to him that he is delegated to a party from subjecting an entire political party to any such unavoidable chance of mishap. This being so, we suggest to Mr. Davis that in order that he may never lose sight of his peculiar responsibilities that he may ever have with him wherever he is away from both Bloomington and Washington the guarding sense that he is a political organization rather than a person, that he record himself on all hotel registers in the golden slope state "The Independent Political Democratic-Republican Party of the United States, Limited."

Owing to flaming advertisements and the recent [illegible] in which are used the names of eminent physicians and chemists, the unsuspecting and credulous have been induced to use some of the so-called Opera Beautifiers, all of which are known to be positively injurious, and if used for any length of time will destroy the complexion, so that it will be next to impossible to restore it. THURSDAY MORNING, MAY [illegible] 1881

SCHOOL [illegible] IN GERMANY.

The [illegible] of the United States at [illegible] has made a [illegible] report on German [illegible] which contains [illegible] that has an interest in the [illegible] useful array of facts [illegible] the system of elementary public schools is [illegible] to be [illegible] the most [illegible] and best adapted for the people and the purposes for which it was created. [illegible] exists. Its fundamental object is mental discipline or training, and in pursuance of that object it represents the method, precision and directness becoming to a great military country. Teaching in these schools is a profession to which a class of learned men exclusively devote themselves, and to which the state gives encouragement and protection. The process of teaching, or rather of training, is studied as a science, and the system under which that process is carried out and developed is superintended and moulded by the government. A teacher is not expected to be a mere [illegible] or [illegible]. He is allowed ample time for private study and is expected to pursue the paths of science in an original way and in original directions. Three hours a day are considered a fair amount of recitation [illegible] labor, the remainder of the time to be given to recreation and research. It is not expected that the teacher shall know everything, but it is expected that in some one thing he shall be both thorough and original. The proportion of female to male teachers is small.

About the commencement of its sixth year the child enters upon the elementary training which prepares it for the examination necessary for admission into the school proper. In the regular course the gymnasia follows, which is usually divided into eight grades. The length of time which pupils are expected to spend in passing these grades is from eight to nine years. The modes of instruction in the four lower grades are adapted to the general purposes of life, while the four upper are especially intended as preparatory for admission to the universities. In the lower classes of the school the attendance is derived mainly from the middle stratum of society, comprising the producing and business classes. Pupils of these classes who do not aspire to a political, scientific or literary career, seldom proceed further than the most advanced of the four lower grades,—that is, they quit school in their sixteenth or seventeenth year, after having remained just long enough to exempt them from two years of military service. The curriculum of the gymnasia comprises about the same amount of classics, physics, mathematics, and philosophical studies as is to be found in the ordinary college course in the United States. Only through the gymnasia can preparation be made for the universities. There is, besides, a class of schools which have for their chief object what is commonly called a practical education. In these schools boys are prepared for mercantile and industrial pursuits, and receive also a general scientific training of a somewhat higher order than is necessary for strictly utilitarian purposes. There is still another class of schools in which boys are prepared for a career in business or the mechanic arts, and also for admission to the polytechnic schools.

One of the faults of the German system as Americans would look upon it, is the excessive school tasks required. Ten to twelve hours' labor each day, in school and out of school, is often and indeed commonly exacted, and it is represented that the German school children are so overtaxed by this incessant drudgery that the powers are confused and mental elasticity destroyed, while instruction is very frequently rendered worse than useless. Consul General Lee says this subject has been much discussed in Germany recently, and that the weight of opinion seems now to be on the side of the belief that the discipline is too severe. In America most people would certainly be of this opinion.

With those who pass to the university study becomes entirely voluntary; the student is expected to direct and impel for himself the processes of his mind. Accustomed from his earliest youth to the strictest subordination he now finds himself at liberty to think and act for himself, a freedom which he not unfrequently abuses by devoting himself to amusements rather than to study. His university course may be prolonged for several years. The main object of the university is to prepare the student for a professional life. He has been well founded in the gymnasium, and in the university he is expected not merely to learn science but to investigate its truths and to explore the foundations and boundaries of those truths for himself. It is almost unnecessary to say that university life is chiefly devoted to abstract and ornamental rather than to practical studies.

Another thing in this essay is very worthy of notice. The writer discusses the fitness of foreign institutions for the education of American youth. An impression widely prevails, or has prevailed, that foreign schools and universities offer to our young people advantages superior to our own. That impression, whatever it may once have been, has ceased, he thinks, to be anything else than a delusion. Whatever German schools and universities may be to Germans, or English schools and universities to English, there can be no question that American schools and universities are altogether the best for Americans. Beyond doubt the supposed superiority of a European education gains much in the estimation of our people from the distance at which they view it. The fact is, this writer does not hesitate to say, that there is a great deal of superficial education in Europe that passes for a more substantial article.

RECIPROCAL RAPINE.

By the constitution of the United States the president is intrusted unconditionally with the power of nominating persons to offices to be filled under the national government. The nominations he may make are subject to the approval of the senate, not of individual senators. Yet what is called "the courtesy of the senate" has thrust itself between the president and his rightful duty. Under this fiction the claim is set up that the president has no right to nominate an administrative functionary until he has first "consulted" the senator or senators of his party for the state in which the office to be filled is situated, and that if he disregards this claim of individual senators, it is then the duty of the whole senate to "stand by" with the senator or senators whose "rights" are thus disregarded. On this system senators are appealed to for help, with promise of help in return, when appointments are to be made for their respective states.

This is the present situation with regard to certain important nominations now pending. Senator Conkling was not "consulted" about the New York collectorship. His "rights" have therefore been disregarded, he has been "insulted," and he asks his fellow senators to stand with him, on the platform of reciprocal rapine, to extend that "courtesy" which claims for the senators from each state the right to dictate the nominations. This, in brief, is what all [illegible] To ten [illegible] enough that [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] statesmen [illegible] for spoils [illegible] the public [illegible] rings and factions and not for purposes of public administration. To get senators once more to admit the principle [illegible] plan is the chief part of [illegible] great Mr. Conkling.

It is not often that a senator is so effectually [illegible] as Vance of North Carolina was the other day. He had joined in the attack on the republicans for encouraging repudiators by favoring Mahone. It so happened that Vance was governor of North Carolina in 1879, and he was guilty of the following suggestion in his message of that year:

> The public debt, it will be seen by the treasurer's report, amounted to [illegible] principal and [illegible] interest. This is known as the recognized debt, as contradistinguished from the special tax bonds. What shall be done with it is a question that deserves your most earnest attention. It is out of the question for us to attempt to pay it at its face value. Indeed, it is [illegible] that there is any moral obligation [illegible] creditors expect [illegible]

This was in fact suggesting repudiation, and it was a debt contracted before the war and there is no excuse for repudiating it beyond that of necessity. Mr. Vance ceased at this point to take any further interest in the debate.

New York papers report very heavy transactions in Northern Pacific stocks. On the 21st April the sales at New York were [illegible] shares of common and [illegible] shares of preferred. On the 18th sales were [illegible] shares of common and [illegible] of preferred, and on the 20th [illegible] shares of common and [illegible] shares of preferred. At Philadelphia large transactions are reported daily in both descriptions. The Philadelphia Times of April 22 says: "The New Northwest, the recognized official organ of the company, was prepared for issue yesterday and contained an onslaught by President Billings upon the opposing Villard interest, but was suppressed by orders from New York, which leads to the inference that some arrangement was under discussion by which a satisfactory settlement of existing difficulties might be made."

Alexander H. Stephens of Georgia, in a letter published in the Philadelphia Press, tries to explain away the remark made in his speech in 1861, after the adoption of the confederate constitution, that the "corner-stone" of the confederacy was human slavery. But with all the explanation it still amounts to just about the same thing, that the "corner-stone" which the south considered the north was "rejecting" had been relaid with new and stronger safeguards. As the south went to war for slavery, it was not necessary for Mr. Stephens to have said it was the corner stone of the confederacy as the whole civilized world accepted it as such. Had there been no slavery to protect there would have been no war.

The question of a universal language comes to the front again, and the spelling reformers of Europe talk of holding an international congress at Berlin at the time the congress of Orientalists meet in September. The subjects suggested for consideration are the formation of a common alphabet for Europe, of a common alphabet for the East, and finally, of a universal alphabet. Music, it is remarked, is pretty nearly a universal language for its own purposes; phonography squints that way, and now, with the telephone to help, something ought to be done to restore mankind to the lingual position they enjoyed before they built the unfortunate tower of babel, or bab-ble one might say.

Mr. William Shakespeare, who is now a member of the common council of the city of Victoria, British Columbia, has introduced in that body an ordinance to prohibit the youth of the city from running at large after nightfall. All the world knows how safe a guardian of the morals of the young William Shakespeare is. If he sets himself upon this particular undertaking with his usual power he will carry his ordinance not only in the common council of Victoria but through the parliament of all mankind.

Continued investments of English capital in all parts of the world show the steady and vast accumulations of English savings. During the first quarter of the current year £20,000,000 were subscribed to entirely new issues of enterprises. This would indicate that the surplus savings of the country are £80,000,000—nearly $400,000,000—a year. The London Times says that the annual savings of the British people are now immensely greater than they ever were before.

Gorham's road is becoming harder and harder to travel. Republican senators are openly declaring that they will not vote for him. Democratic senators will hardly reward him by their votes for the part he has borne in enticing Mahone away from his allegiance to their party. The organ-grinding business has "fixed" Gorham. Brady has been too hard a task master.

Jeff Davis' book is not yet out, and nobody seems to know just when it will be. But it is already the best advertised book of the time.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN,

The Most Successful Physician on the Pacific Coast in the Treatment of

ALL CHRONIC & DIFFICULT DISEASES.

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of Disease of the generative organs or private disease. He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,

Such as SPERMATORRHEA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two-thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician to cure them, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their constitutions broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, and death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost manhood perfectly restored. Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint, and all Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail.

Consultation Free, and a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who cannot consult him personally. Enclose postage stamp for list.

Office, 132 and 134 Third St., opposite Masonic Hall. Office Hours, from 10 to 12 A. M., 2 to 4 and 7 to 8 P. M.

All letters for Consultation and Business must be addressed to DR. PAUL M. BRENAN & CO., Portland, Oregon.

THURSDAY MORNING, MAY 5, 1881.

CITY.

A GOOD [illegible] WINTER.—Much has been said at different times about the climate of [illegible] and [illegible] have indulged in very disparaging [illegible] about the unpleasant character of the winter. [illegible] Oregon has a very [illegible] climate and enjoys a large [illegible] exemption from the extremes of heat and cold, so prevalent in the eastern and western states. To show that Oregon winters are mild comparatively, we publish the following extract from a letter received by a well known gentleman of this city. The letter was written from [illegible] county, Wis., under date of April 27: "Our winter has been the most severe ever known since my residence here (28 years), and the end is not yet. Since Jan. 1 our roads have been almost impassable. Blizzard after blizzard has swept over the land, piling up the snow in all directions from ten to twenty feet deep, causing a complete [illegible] of all kinds of business. Our entire network of railroads in this state have been snowed under at different times from three to fourteen days at a time, while in Minnesota and other [illegible] states it has been far worse. With us at the present all earth road travel is in a state of complete [illegible] [illegible] are impassable. Unless we get a southern wind or rainstorm soon our farm crops will be alarmingly short this season. At present nothing can be done in the line of seeding [illegible] of May and that is very late to [illegible] remunerative crops in our state."

RETURNED.—Rev. G. H. Atkinson, D. D., returned on the Columbia from a six months' trip east, most of which time he has spent in lecturing upon Oregon, and presenting the claims of this largely undeveloped empire, and also pressing the need of large and comprehensive plans for educational and religious work in this state and adjacent territories. The [illegible] is to return [illegible] to resume his work which he has so successfully prosecuted for [illegible] years. The Chicago Advance says that he has succeeded in securing funds to settle "east [illegible]" on [illegible] to be erected under his supervision in [illegible] of this new northwest. The Congregational churches of this city, the First and the North, and the East Portland church have tendered Dr. Atkinson [illegible] a reception, which will be held in the [illegible] of the First Congregational church, Tuesday, May 10th. A cordial invitation is extended to all the Doctor's friends, irrespective of denomination, and the public generally to attend.

A HORRIBLE FATE.—A few days since [illegible] published a dispatch from Salinas City, California, giving the particulars of the burning of the residence of H. S. Ball, mayor of that place, and also the horrible fate of Mrs. Ball and her two daughters, Henrietta and Nelly, who perished in the flames. Mr. Ball and family were residents of Portland some years ago, and will be remembered by many in this city. Mrs. White, wife of Warren S. White, grand recorder of the A. O. U. W. for this state, was visiting at the house of Mayor Ball at the time of the terrible disaster. Fortunately for Mrs. White, she visited a friend and remained there during the night, or probably she would have shared a similar fate. Mayor Ball is a member of [illegible] lodge No. 17, A. O. U. W., at Salinas City, and the Pacific States Watchman, published in San Francisco, under date of May 1st, gives a long account of the catastrophe, and the funeral of the hapless victims.

CREDITORS' MEETING.—S. Goldstein of Sitka, whose death is noticed elsewhere, was indebted to merchants of this city to the extent of $10,000 or more. Among the creditors are Waite, Goldsmith & Co., Jacob Bros. & Co., Keshland Bros., Hecht Bros. & Co., Neustadter Bros., M. Seller & Co., Thanhauser & Frohman, P. Wasserman & Co., T. Dittenhoefer, and other firms. A meeting of creditors will be held this afternoon in the office of the Merchants Protective Agency to take steps to effect an adjustment of their claims. As no court has jurisdiction in Alaska in civil cases, the debts can only be collected if the heirs are willing to turn over the estate to the creditors.

A FAST TRIP.—Dr. George H. Atkinson and wife, who arrived here on the steamer Columbia from San Francisco, made a remarkably quick trip from Moline, Illinois, to Portland. They left Moline at 7 o'clock A. M. on Monday, April 25th, bound west. Owing to the high water, four hours were lost in crossing the Missouri river at Omaha in boats. They were detained about twenty hours in San Francisco before the steamer Columbia sailed. The entire traveling time between Moline and Portland—deducting only two stoppages mentioned above—was six days and twenty hours.

LECTURE ON ADMIRAL FARRAGUT.—Rev. C. V. Anthony, formerly pastor of the Taylor-street M. E. church in this city, delivered a lecture at the central M. E. church, San Francisco, on Wednesday evening, April 27th, on his reminiscences of Admiral David G. Farragut. During the years the admiral was in charge of Mare Island navy yard, from 1854 to 1858, Mr. Anthony was pastor of the Methodist church in Vallejo, and frequently dined with him. The lecture was largely anecdotal, and some of the anecdotes were new to the public.

LARCENY OF A COAT.—A man named John Hartness entered the saloon of J. H. Boyd last evening about 10 o'clock and picking up a coat belonging to the barkeeper, Mr. Geo. Warren, walked off with it. Mr. Warren soon missed his property and making a search with Officer Barry, soon found Hartness sitting in the Norton House with the coat on. He identified his property at once and Hartness was marched off to jail at once and will have a charge of larceny to answer for to-day before Judge Stearns.

SAD DEATH.—About six months ago Mr. Wm. M. Gifford, a lawyer and capitalist of New Jersey, with his bride, came to this city to make it their home. After visiting various portions of Oregon and Washington, they took rooms at Mrs. Farmer's on Fifth street. Last week Mrs. Gifford became a mother, and yesterday she died. To a small circle of friends whom Mrs. Gifford by her gentleness and modesty and cultivated manners drew around her, she was much endeared.

PROPOSE TO CELEBRATE.—The regular monthly meeting of the fire company of East Portland was held on Tuesday evening. The committee on 4th of July celebration reported that they thought it inexpedient to attempt a celebration in East Portland this year, which report was adopted. A committee consisting of Messrs. Underhill, Matlock and Payne, were appointed to confer with Portland committees and arrange for East Portland in the celebration.

THE ATHLETIC ENTERTAINMENT.—It should not be forgotten that the Olympic club will give their exhibitions to-morrow and Saturday night, and at matinee Saturday. The entertainments last year were worthy of professionals, and this week's performances will surpass the first efforts of the club. The musical programme embraces four splendid numbers. The sale of reserves yesterday indicates a good attendance—and the boys deserve it.

NEW SIDEWALK.—The old and decayed sidewalk on the east side of Third street between [illegible]er and Morrison has all been torn up and a new one will be laid. In removing the old rotten plank and timber it became necessary to remove three large locust trees which have stood there for at least a quarter of century. These landmarks were taken up by the roots, cut into firewood and carted away.

GOVERNMENT TUG.—The little government tug which was launched some days since still lies moored below Greenwich dock. In a few days she will make a trial trip and then report for service. The tug was built by the government and will be used on the Willamette and Columbia rivers for survey and inspection service.

DEATH OF S. GOLDSTEIN.—News was received here yesterday of the death of Samuel Goldstein, a prominent merchant of Sitka, who died in San Francisco Saturday, of malarial fever. Mr. Goldstein has lived in Alaska for the past twelve years, and was well known here. He leaves a widow and two children.

IN COMMAND.—Capt. Gore, who has been running on the steamer John Gates on the Upper Columbia, is now in command of the steamer S. G. Reed. He took command yesterday. Capt. John Wolf, the pioneer pilot, who has been running on both the Wide West and Reed, continues in command of the former boat.

STREET FINISHED.—Stark street from Front to First is now one of the best thoroughfares in the city. The work of macadamizing is completed, and yesterday the ponderous street roller was being hauled to and fro over the crushed stone, packing and leveling it down. The street is now thrown open to travel.

QUICK TRIP.—Passengers bound for Portland left Walla Walla Tuesday evening at 5.30 on the train. They were landed on Ainsworth dock yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock and 28 minutes, 20 hours in making the through trip. This is the quickest time ever made between these points.

U. S. DISTRICT COURT.—Judge Deady will deliver an opinion in this court this morning in the case of the [illegible] upon the contention between the libellants, Cornish & Hitchcock, and the claimants [illegible] concerning the ownership of the old [illegible] and vessel.

[illegible] BIRDS.—The British ship Oakworth, which has arrived here from Shanghai, China, brought a number of game birds sent here by Hon. O. N. Denny, consul general at that point. These birds will be sent to various sections of the country and turned loose.

SERIES OF CONCERTS.—Mr. Pferdner, advance agent of the band of the 1st regiment U. S. cavalry, is in this city making arrangements for a series of concerts to be given by that celebrated [illegible] organization a week after next at New Market Theater.

TRAINS TO [illegible].—Commencing to-morrow morning the narrow gauge will run east side trains to [illegible]. The bridge over the North Santiam is not yet finished, but the falsework has been built sufficiently strong to bear trains.

[illegible] INSANE.—James Davey, who has been a patient at St. Vincent Hospital for some time, has been adjudged insane by the county judge. He was [illegible] to the asylum yesterday afternoon.

WILL [illegible].—At a meeting held night before last, [illegible] Engine Co. No. 5 passed a resolution to [illegible] the Fourth of July whether the other companies join the procession or not.

[illegible]—The [illegible] will be the theme of the [illegible] at the [illegible] national prayer and conference meeting to-night.

[illegible] EXTENSION.—The D street culvert is being extended almost to the C street line. This is the correct thing.

The only coupes in town are at Acker & Leiby's city stables.

A Cure Bargain, just received at J. K. Gill & Co's.

Spring Lamb, very choice, at Hoffman's.

Baby carriages for the million at Beck & Son's.

Eastern and Olympia oysters—Waller's, 86 First.

Remember that child's drug store is on the corner of Second and Morrison sts.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

EPITOME OF ITS PROCEEDINGS LAST NIGHT.

Extension of Market Street Vetoed—$1000 Voted for a Fourth of July Celebration—A Cleanup of Business on the Table.

The city council met in regular session last [illegible], Mayor Thompson [illegible] and all the councilmen except Walker present.

[illegible]

The following message from the mayor vetoing the ordinance [illegible] Market street was read:

MAYOR'S OFFICE,
PORTLAND, OR., May 4, 1881.

To the Honorable the Common Council of [illegible]:

I herewith return to you ordinance No. [illegible] entitled "An ordinance [illegible] the report of the viewers in the matter of the proposed extension of Madison street [illegible] Fourth street to [illegible] west line of Chapman street, and directing an entry of the assessment hereby made in the docket of city liens," without my approval, for the reason that section [illegible] of an act entitled an act to authorize the city of Portland to lay out and widen streets and alleys, and to appropriate private property therefor, approved Dec. 19, 1865, requires that within thirty days after the report of the city surveyor of the survey of such street or alley has been adopted, three viewers shall be appointed to [illegible] such proposed street and make an assessment of damages and benefits.

It appears that the viewers were not appointed within thirty days of the time the report of the city surveyor was adopted by the common council, and consequently the requirements of this section of the city charter has not been complied with.

The assessment of damages in the [illegible] of this street is a large amount and the property holders are almost unanimous in opposition to the street being opened, and as it will in all probability result in [illegible] lawsuits, it is not desirable to pass this ordinance, because it is [illegible]. For this reason I have withheld my signature. Respectfully submitted,

D. P. THOMPSON, Mayor.

The veto was sustained by unanimous vote.

The following communication was then read:

MAYOR'S OFFICE,
PORTLAND, OR., May 4, 1881.

To the Honorable Common Council [illegible]:

I would most respectfully call your attention to the necessity of an ordinance to prevent vessels having on board large quantities of powder, giant powder, dynamite and nitro glycerine from landing at the wharves of the city. Magazines should be constructed [illegible] the city so that vessels may discharge such freight before coming to the wharf here. My attention has been called to the fact that a ship having on board forty tons of powder and giant powder anchored at one of the wharves within the past week. Steamboats having on board large quantities of powder are frequently at our wharves. A stringent ordinance should be passed to prevent vessels with such dangerous freight on board from stopping at our wharves after taking that character of freight on board. The great amount of railroad building now going on, and the great amount of explosive materials being used in blasting such on the line of these railways, renders it necessary that some ordinance regulating the transportation so far as the city of Portland is concerned necessary. Respectfully submitted,

D. P. THOMPSON, Mayor.

Referred to committee on landings and wharves.

PETITIONS.

From R. H. Thompson and others asking their names to be withdrawn from the remonstrance against Sixth street improvement; referred to committee on streets and public property.

From Chas. Klonbeck and others asking North Fourteenth street be improved from R to North S street by grading and sidewalks, same reference.

From John Wilson and others asking for a street lamp southwest corner Twelfth and Taylor, same reference.

From H. C. Wandt and others asking that Twentieth street be improved from I to L by grading and sidewalks; placed on file.

From Chas. W. Green asking that Market street improvement be completed; referred to committee on streets and public property.

From H. W. Monastes and others asking that Columbia street be improved from Third to Eighth; same reference.

REMONSTRANCES.

RESOLUTIONS.

The following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That the chief of police be and is hereby directed to revoke the appointment of Jacob Kewemble as poundmaster.

Resolved, That the chief of police be authorized and directed to appoint some suitable person to perform the duties of poundmaster.

Resolved, That notice be given that the common council propose to improve Hall street from the center line of Ninth street to the east line of Eleventh street, by grading, laying sidewalks and crosswalks.

Resolved, That the chief of police be authorized and directed to refrain from collecting the tax against lots 7 and 8 in block 183, Caruthers' addition, the same having been wrongfully assessed.

Resolved, That notice be given that the common council propose to extend the sewer in Yamhill street from its present terminus 100 feet west of Tenth street to 300 feet west of Eleventh street with 12 inch terra cotta pipe, with the necessary catchwater basins, manholes, manholes, sockets and branches.

Resolved, That the city surveyor be and is hereby authorized and directed to survey an extension of Madison street from the east line of Eighth street to its intersection with Chapman street and file his report thereof together with a plat showing each particular tract of land to be appropriated by such proposed extension.

Resolved, That the city surveyor be and he is hereby directed to survey a lateral extension of Chapman street so as to make said street sixty feet wide from the south line of Jefferson street to the north line of West Salmon street, and that he mark the boundaries thereof and make his report of such survey, together with a plat thereof, as required by law.

Resolved, That notice be given that the common council propose to improve West Park street from the south line of G street to north line of [illegible] street by grading, laying sidewalks and crosswalks and macadamizing the roadway full width.

Resolved, That notice be given that the common council of the city of Portland propose to improve Alder street from the west line of Front street to the east line of First street by laying stone block pavement and stone crosswalks, with the necessary grading therefor.

Whereas, The common council deem it expedient to lay out a street to be called North Twenty-fifth street, to be sixty feet wide and [illegible] feet westerly from North Twenty-second street [illegible] to extend [illegible] of the city, therefore

Resolved, That the city surveyor be directed to survey such proposed North Twenty-fifth street, mark the boundaries thereof and make his report of such survey, together with a plat thereof, as required by law.

Whereas, The common council deem it expedient to lay out a street to be called North Twenty-third street, to be sixty feet wide and two hundred feet westerly from north Twenty-second street, and to extend from an extension of T street to the north-western boundary of the city; therefore,

Resolved, That the city surveyor be directed to survey such proposed North Twenty-third street, make the boundaries thereof and make his report of such survey, together with a plat thereof, as required by law.

Resolved, That notice is given that the common council propose to improve north Eighteenth street from the north line of G street to the south line of I street, by macadamizing the roadway full width with stone, gutters, and by doing the necessary grading therefor.

Whereas, The common council deem it expedient to extend T street, therefore,

Resolved, That the city surveyor be and is hereby directed to survey and make the boundaries of the extension of T street from its present western termination westerly to the city boundary, and that he make his report of such survey, together with a plat thereof as required by law.

Whereas, The common council deem it expedient to lay out a street to be called North Twenty-fourth street to be sixty feet wide and [illegible] feet westerly from North Twenty-second street and to extend from an extension of T street to the north boundary of the city, therefore

Resolved, That the city surveyor be directed to survey such proposed North Twenty-fourth street, mark the boundaries thereof and his report of such survey, together with a plat thereof as required by law.

Resolved, That notice be given that the common council propose to change the grade of Hall street at Eleventh, Twelfth and Fourteenth streets, to establish the same as follows: At Eleventh street [illegible] feet, at Twelfth street, 22 feet, and at Fourteenth street, [illegible] feet above the base of the city grades.

THE LECTURE.

[illegible] drew together an excellent audience at the [illegible] Temple yesterday evening, the entrance with [illegible] Mrs. H. J. [illegible] with marked expression, and with a [illegible] "Asleep at the Switch."

Taking up the thread of discourse from her last lecture Mrs. Henderson spoke for nearly an hour, giving to her auditors many [illegible] sketches [illegible] to other authors, [illegible] her theme and its incidents. As the war progressed, more and more expedients and substitute inventions had to be resorted to, until the dependence of the outside world became almost an art of the [illegible].

Their adventures in the potato field, with their horses, with a thunder of guns which at last found [illegible] into the [illegible], with mingled [illegible] to protect their [illegible] through the roof [illegible] were [illegible] humorously, and some with a pathos [illegible].

With [illegible] the lecture was beyond reproach [illegible] the working of machine and family [illegible] letters from far away friends, the loneliness [illegible] graphically and a description to the close of the lecture, of the southern woods, about the plantation school house—the birches and jessamines, the magnolias white with flowers, that seemed like [illegible] fallen among their glossy leaves, "flowers one leaf of which the soldiers for lovers to write their messages on with the thorn of an orange tree," was a description [illegible] will soon forget.

It was two months after the surrender of Lee before the tidings reached the little family. [illegible] found them wearied enough with the hopes deferred, and long [illegible] and deprivations, with sympathy [illegible] of others. The life so spent, however, under the sweet [illegible] adversity developed the jewel of character in young and old, and the heroism of the soldiers, the women of the war, and [illegible], who [illegible] under suffering will illustrate the great German's saying,

Wealth gone, nothing gone;
Honor gone, something gone;
Courage gone, all gone;
Better never have been born!

Mrs. Henderson's last lecture will be given next Wednesday evening, [illegible] "Life among the Creoles at New Orleans."

AMUSEMENTS.

THE SECOND PERFORMANCE.—Notwithstanding the night was dark and stormy, Haverly's [illegible] under [illegible] New Market theater again to overflowing. It was the second appearance of the big four minstrels, but there was no [illegible] in the attendance and the interest seemed even keener than [illegible] opening evening. Excellent as was the performance on the opening night there was every [illegible].

Part first was the opportunity for the introduction of an overture medley by the orchestra, the ballads, "Sweet Eyes," by Burt Haverly; "The Day When You'll Forget Me," Jas. A. Barney; "Kitty's Request," Billy Arnold; "Empty is the Cradle," D. B. Beadle; "Mock and Roll," John W. Morton; "Touch not my Heart," Ernest Sinclair, and [illegible] the Moon."

Part second consisted of a [illegible] in which she showed wonderful skill in manipulating the [illegible] and a number of most mirth exciting burlesque songs and [illegible] given in his own peculiar style. The Arnold brothers, in their unapproachable street [illegible].

A better pleased audience never emerged from the theater than the one last evening. [illegible]

This evening the minstrels [illegible] change of programme [illegible].

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Dr. Paul M. Ruman has removed his [illegible] place of business on First street to New [illegible] on Third street opposite Masonic hall.

[illegible] King announces the receipt of another invoice of laundried and unlaundried shirts, of better material and more careful make than those ever before, also a full line of gents furnishing goods.

Read Ackerman & Co's new price list this week. Its perusal will interest every housekeeper. The firm has just received 35 cases of baby carriages in addition to their already large stock. The biggest by far in the city. In prices of crockery and glassware they are below all competitors. They have the extension library chandelier with large porcelain shade for $3.

UP THE COLUMBIA.

The following dispatches were received here last evening at 5 o'clock.

THURSDAY MORNING, MAY 5, 1881.

LITTLE BLUE EYES.

Or, Why I Joined the Detectives.

"Can I sit with you?"

"Certainly, sir."

"Nice weather?"

"Splendid, indeed."

"Crops growing finely?"

"Yes—couldn't do better."

I was sitting in a car on a Wisconsin railroad one day, years ago, when a good looking, pleasant-spoken man came along, stopped at my seat, and the above conversation took place, the latter part of it after I had given him part of my seat.

Did you ever meet a man who, though a stranger to you ten minutes before, could wring from you secrets which you had sworn to yourself never to reveal? Well, he was such a man. It was not long before he commenced asking me questions. He did not seem over-curious or draw me out, but he asked me questions in such a sly, roundabout way, that before I knew it I was giving him my history.

I was at that time just on the point of being admitted to the bar of Wisconsin as a student of Law & Law, of [illegible]. The firm were old lawyers with a lucrative practice, and it had been talked over that in about a month I should be the "cub" of the firm. A year before, a farmer named Preston, down about four miles from Grafton, died, and his matters had been put into the hands of Law & Law for settlement. Preston had died rich. He had money in banks, railroad stock, mortgages, etc., and everything was settled up to the satisfaction of the relict and fatherless.

About a year before his death, being pinched for money, and not wishing to sell anything at a sacrifice, Preston had given a mortgage on his own farm for three thousand dollars. While the papers read "for one year from date," there was a verbal agreement that it should be lifted any day that Preston desired. A month after, when he had the funds to clear off the paper, the old "money-bags" holding it refused to discharge, wishing to secure his interest for a year.

I was on my way to learn the date of expiration. A fire among our office papers had destroyed the memoranda. We got to Grafton at 10:30, and to my great surprise he announced that he was going to stop in the town on business for a few days. I had not asked his name or vocation, while he knew everything about me.

We went to the hotel, had dinner and then I secured a livery team and drove out, getting through with business so that I was back to take the 3:20 express east. My friend was on the porch of the hotel as I drove up, carrying the same honest, dignified face.

"Well, did you find out?" he inquired in his pleasant way.

"Yes, it was the 13th, as I expected," I replied.

We had lunch together, and when we shook hands and parted I had no more idea of ever meeting him again than I had of knowing you. In fact he told me that he should sail for England within a week or ten days, and should not return to America. At parting he gave me his card. It was a modest piece of pasteboard and bore the name of "George Raleigh" in old English script.

Everything at the office went on as usual, and the 13th came at length. Law & Law had arranged with me to go down with the money, and I looked upon it as a business of no special importance.

"We know you are right," remarked the senior partner as I was about to go, "but I want to give you a word of warning, nevertheless. Don't take any stranger into your confidence until you have passed out the money, and look out who sits next to you."

It was something new for him to caution me, and I could not but wonder at it; but in the bustle of getting aboard the train I forgot what he said. Ordinary prudence had induced me to place the money, which was all in bank bills and divided into three packages, under my shirt and next to my skin, where the deft hand of a pick-pocket could not reach it.

Interested in a newspaper, time flew by as the train flew west, and at length the hoarse voice of the brakeman warned me that I had reached Grafton. I had leaped down, and was making for the livery stable when I heard a familiar voice and looked up to see Raleigh. He was seated in a buggy and had seemingly waited for me to come in.

"Don't express your surprise," he began, as I stopped at the wheel. "I did intend to go away, but I changed my mind, and like this section so well that I am going out to-day to look at a farm with a view of purchasing. Come, ride up to the hotel."

We rode up, ordered lunch, and while we were discussing it Mr. Raleigh discovered that the farm he was going to see was just beyond that of old Grip's.

How fortunate! I could ride out with him, see the farm, return in his company, and he was greatly pleased.

I was also pleased. If any one had told me, as we got into the buggy, that George Raleigh meant to return with my money in his pocket and my blood upon his hands, I should have believed him to be a lunatic. And yet George Raleigh had planned to do that very thing.

It was a lovely day in June, and the cool breeze and the sight of meadows and green groves made my heart grow larger. My companion was very talkative, but he didn't even hint at my errand. He talked as far away as he could.

"Oh, excuse me!" he exclaimed, after we had passed a mile beyond the village, and were among the farm-houses. "I should have offered you this before."

He drew from his pocket a small flask of wine and handed it to me. Now, I was temperate in regard to drinks. In fact, I detested the sight and smell of anything intoxicating. But I had not the moral courage to tell him so and hand back the flask undisturbed. I feared to offend him, and so I drank, perhaps, three good swallows. He called my attention to the woods on the left as he received back the flask, and when I looked around again he was just removing it from his mouth, as if he had just drank heartily.

In about five minutes I began to feel queer. The fences along the road seemed to grow higher, and the trees to grow larger; something came to my ears so that the rattle of the buggy sounded a long way off.

"How strange! Why, I believe I am going to be sick," I exclaimed, holding on to the seat with all my might.

"You do look strange," he replied, a snaky smile stealing over his face; "I shouldn't wonder if it was apoplexy."

I did not suspect the game he had played; his words were like an echo, and his face seemed twice as large as it was. My head began to spin and my brain began to snap and crack, and I was greatly frightened.

"You are badly off," he continued, looking into my face. "I will drive as fast as possible and get a doctor."

My tongue was so heavy that I could not reply. I clutched the seat, shut my eyes, and he put the horse at his best pace. We met a farmer's team, and I can remember that one of the occupants of the wagon called out to know what ailed that man. Raleigh did not reply, but urged his horse forward.

About three miles from Grafton was a long stretch of forest, and this was soon reached. The pain in my head was not so violent, and I was not so badly affected when opening my eyes. I had settled into a sort of dumb stupor, with a brain so benumbed that I had to say to myself: "This is a tree, that is a stump," etc., before I could make sure that I was not wrong. Half a mile down the road we struck the forest and then Raleigh turned the horse into a blind road leading back into the woods. I could not understand what he intended. I tried to grapple with the question, but could not solve it.

"Well! here we are!" exclaimed Raleigh, when he had reached a point forty rods from the main road.

He stopped the horse, got out and hitched him, and then came round to the wheel.

"You don't feel just right, but I guess you will be better soon," he remarked. "Come, let me help you down."

He reached up his arms, and I let go the seat and fell into them. It seemed to me as though I weighed a ton, but he carried me along without an effort, and laid me down within a rod of the fence which ran along one side of an old pasture. Just now I began to get better. The effects of the drug were wearing off, and I got a faint suspicion that something unusual had happened. But I was powerless to move a limb; the sensation was like that when your foot goes to sleep.

"Can't you speak?" inquired Raleigh, bending over me, "because if you can, it will save me trouble. I want to know just where you have stowed that money?"

Now I began to realize my situation. His face looked natural again, and the load was off my tongue. I also felt that I could move my fingers a little.

"George Raleigh! are you going to rob me?" I asked, drawing my breath hard.

[illegible]

"[illegible]" I yelled [illegible].

[illegible] this."

He went to the buggy, procured a piece of rope and a gag, and bending down bound me. [illegible] little strength left and he [illegible] moment. Lying on my right side, holding toward the fence, he tied my hands behind me and then forced the gag into my mouth.

"There now, you see you are as [illegible] and all because you acted like a fool [illegible] a sensible young lawyer [illegible] to be admitted to the bar."

While he was speaking—indeed while he was tying me—I had caught sight of the white face of a little girl looking at us between the rails of the fence. I could see her great blue eyes, and knew that she was frightened. There were red stains around her mouth and on one little hand resting on the rail, and I knew that she was some farmer's child searching for strawberries. I could not warn her of her danger, and I feared that she would be seen or heard. While Raleigh was tying the last knot I winked at the little girl as hard as I could, hoping that she would move away. But she did not move.

"Well, now for the money," said Raleigh, as he began searching my pockets. He went from one to the other, removing all the articles, felt down my boot-leg, and then finally passed his hand over my bosom and found the money.

"Ha, here it is!" he exclaimed, drawing out the packages, "and I don't hardly believe that old Grip will see any of it to-day."

He sat down near my head, undid the packages, and was cool enough to go at it to count the money. As he commenced, the little girl waved her hand at me. My heart went thumping, for I expected that she would utter a word or shout, and I caught a glimpse of her frock as she passed through the grass.

"You see, my young friend," remarked Raleigh, as he drew out one of his boots and deposited some of the bills in it, "there's nothing like transacting business as it should be transacted. Some men would have shot or stabbed you, but it's only the apprentices who do such work. All the real gentlemen of our calling do business as gentlemen should."

He drew off the other boot and placed some "fifties" and "twenties" in it, and then continued:

"I have it all planned out how to deal with you; as soon as I get this money disposed around my person, I shall lay you on your back and pour the balance of the wine down your throat. There's enough of it to make you sleep till to-morrow night, and by that time I shall be hundreds of miles away. As soon as I see the drug take effect, I shall untie your hands and remove the gag. When you come out of your sleep, if you ever do, you had better crawl out to the road where you will meet some traveler soon. I want to use the horse and buggy, otherwise I would leave them for you."

How coolly he talked. He treated the matter as if it were a regular transaction, in which I fully acquiesced. He had me a fast prisoner, and I felt that he could do just as he pleased. While I was thinking, I saw the little white face appear between the rails again, but in a moment it faded away and its place was taken by the sunburned phiz of a farmer. He looked from me to Raleigh and back again, and I winked at him in a way that he readily understood. His face disappeared, and I felt that I should be saved.

"No, old Grip won't get his tin to-day," mused Raleigh, stowing away the bills in his pockets. "You will go back to Law & Law feeling put out and cut up, but they can't blame you; it is not your fault at all. True, had you minded your business on the car, and not been so free with a stranger, this would not have happened. I was on my way to Milwaukee, and had no thought of such rich pickings here."

I saw nothing of the farmer. Raleigh finished his counting, and I made up my mind that the farmer was afraid to interfere, and had run away. My heart went down as Raleigh got up, for I saw that he was about to carry out his plan of further drugging me. He turned me on my back, sat down astride of me, and then pulled out the flask.

"Now, in just about a minute we'll be through with this business," he remarked, trying to put the mouth of the flask between my jaws.

I rolled my head on one side, and he did not succeed. He was jamming the flask against my teeth, when I caught the sound of a soft step, the crash of a club, and Raleigh rolled over my body. He tried to leap up, but three or four farmers struck him down, and one of the blows rendered him senseless. Before he came to I was free of rope and gag, and we had him securely bound.

Over beyond the pasture a farmer and his hands were raking hay. "Little Blue Eyes," only eight years old, had wandered off after strawberries, and had, fortunately for me, witnessed a part of Raleigh's proceedings. She hurried back to her father and told him that "a man was all tied up out there." Understanding the situation, he and his men moved round so as to secure an advantage, and Raleigh's capture was the result.

When the rascal found his senses he was terribly taken back, and cursed enough for the whole Flanders army. We took him back to Grafton, and when I saw him again he was on his way to the penitentiary to serve a sentence of fifteen years.

The mortgage was duly lifted, and the gift which Law & Law sent Katy Gray kept her in dresses for many a year.

For myself, I felt so humiliated at having fallen into the rascal's trap, and so wrathy at the treatment, that I determined to devote myself to a thorough warfare on rogues. I therefore joined the detective force, and after due study took my place as a full-fledged detective.

QUIPS AND QUIDDITIES.

A narrow escape: "Back at last from Ireland, dear Sir John! We have missed you!" "So have my tenants, thank goodness."—London Punch.

Two views of the matter: "Yes," said Pendleton, swellingly, "what I am I can truly say that my wife made me." "Not very complimentary to Mrs. Pendleton," remarked Bluze, in a stage whisper.—Boston Transcript.

A wicked city: A young gentleman who went to St. Louis said to a hotel clerk: "I hear that in this city all men swear; I do not." And the clerk replied: "What in St. Louis are you in St. Louis for, then?"—Leavenworth Times.

Maiden and mirror: "There, Henrietta, don't be forever gazing into the mirror. It looks very bad." "I was thinking, mamma, that it looked very good; and, besides, father says I should look on the bright side, including, I suppose, the bright side of a mirror."—Boston Transcript.

Modern education: Teacher of public school to class in sewing—"You may have for your next exercise the principles of the back stitch and the proper mode of farming the hem." Pupil—"Please, may I be excused? I've pricked my finger with the needle." Teacher (with firmness)—"Suck the blood from it and attend directly to your exercise."—New Haven Register.

NEW YORK CITY'S GROWTH.

Its Amazing Development During the Past Sixty Years.

[From the New York Telegram.]

Within sixty years New York has grown from a thriving seaport town to be one of the largest cities in the world, in point of wealth, size, population, and commercial importance. London and Paris have taken centuries to achieve the position they now hold. New York, commencing her rapid career of growth in 1820, has sprung suddenly to the front in a little over half a century. The opening of the Erie canal and the construction, link by link, of the leading railroads, which gave it communication with the great lakes and the valleys of the Ohio and the Mississippi, initiated the period of New York's imperial growth. Its progress at once became more rapid.

If the shade of Peter Stuyvesant, erstwhile of New Amsterdam, could suddenly take a look to-day at the city that has sprung from the little germ of a metropolis which he in the flesh regarded as a place of marvelous proper dimensions and importance, the doughty old hero would stand aghast.

The following table conveys such an idea of the growth of the city during the sixty years just past as can be gathered from a presentation of the number of its inhabitants and the value of its real and personal estate for each decade from 1820 to 1880, inclusive.

YEARS.	Population.	Real Estate.	Personal Estate.
1820..........	123,060	$57,592,318	$29,594,156
1830..........	202,630	87,603,580	37,584,958
1840..........	312,710	187,221,714	65,011,801
1850..........	515,547	207,142,576	78,019,240
1860..........	814,254	398,561,619	178,098,067
1870..........	942,292	742,103,075	305,285,374
1880..........	1,206,590	942,571,690	201,194,037

From 1870 to 1880 the population of New York increased 264,298, or about 28 per cent. London lies on both sides of the Thames, Paris on both sides of the Seine. In comparing the population of those capitals with that of this city we should take in both sides of the North and East rivers. Looking upon New York, Brooklyn and Jersey City as one vast centre of population, we have a metropolis of 1,894,007 souls, thus:

New York..................1,206,590
Brooklyn..................566,689
Jersey City..................120,728

Total..................1,894,007

Rigid accuracy cannot be claimed for the census returns of population. The time of the year in which the enumeration is made is not the best for ascertaining the true number of inhabitants. This circumstance operates strongly against New York and other large cities. Thus, the census is taken at a time—June 1st—when many people are already in the country and after the exodus to Europe has set in. Those who have made this subject a study claim that the population of New York at this present writing is over 1,250,000, and that the aggregate population of New York, Brooklyn, Williamsburg and Jersey City exceeds 2,000,000. If these estimates are correct, this metropolis, in point of size, comes immediately after London and outranks the [illegible] of Paris [illegible].

OUR NORTHERN BOUNDARY.

A Great Work Completed—How the Line Between the United States and British Territory Is Marked.

Not one in a thousand, perhaps, of the millions of people living in the United States knows how their country is bounded on the line between the United States and British territory. It will be interesting, therefore, to know how the northern boundary is traced and marked. The work is now complete, except as to the territory of Alaska [illegible] since the treaty of [illegible] we have been [illegible] boundary with Great Britain until a year or two ago, when the work was finally completed by a joint commission consisting of Maj. Donald R. Cameron, royal artillery, and Capt. A. C. Ward, royal engineers, for Great Britain and Archibald Campbell and Capt. J. Twining, U. S. A. [illegible] April, 1872, [illegible] a post near Pembina [illegible] that the

COMMENCING [illegible] BOUNDARY LINE

Between the British possessions and the United States at that place was 175 feet north of the 49th parallel, and it ran due west from such a point that would throw the fort of the Hudson Bay company at Pembina into the United States. Here was a difficulty, and the officers at once communicated it to their government. The president, Gen. Grant, sent the information to the British government, and requested consent that the United States occupy the fort of the Hudson Bay company until the matter could be determined. Of course, such a reasonable request was at once granted. The president then sent a message to congress, recommending the establishment of a joint commission to fix the boundary line between the two countries, and congress assented, appropriating [illegible] by joint resolution to carry out the work. The appropriation was not available until 1872, when the work was begun as above stated, by a party commissioned by the two governments. The northern boundary is iron pillars, wood pillars, earth mounds and timber posts. A stone cairn is 7½ feet by 8 feet, an earth mound 7 feet by 14 feet, an iron pillar 8 feet high, 8 inches square at the bottom and 4 inches at the top, timber posts 5 feet high and 8 inches square. There are 385 of these marks between the lake of the Woods and the base of the Rocky mountains. That portion of the boundary which lies east and west of the Red river valley is marked by cast-iron pillars at even mile intervals. The British place one every two miles, and the United States one between each British post. Our pillars or markers were made at Detroit, Mich. They are hollow iron castings, three-eighths of an inch in thickness, in the form of a truncated pyramid, eight feet high, eight inches square at the bottom, and four inches at the top, as before stated. They have at the top a solid pyramidal cap and at the bottom an octagonal flange one inch in thickness. Upon the opposite faces are cast in letters two inches high the inscriptions, and "October 20, 1818." The inscriptions begin at about four feet six inches above the base, and read upward. The interiors of the hollow posts are filled with well-seasoned cedar posts, sawed to fit, and securely spiked through the holes cast in the pillars for the purpose. The average weight of each pillar when completed is eighty-five pounds. The pillars are all set four feet in the ground, with their flat sides facing the north and south, and the earth is well settled and stamped about them. For the wooden posts well seasoned timber is selected, and the portion above the ground is painted red, to prevent swelling and shrinking. These posts do very well, but the Indians use them for fuel, and nothing but iron will last very long. Where the line crosses lakes, monuments of stone have been built, the bases being in some places eighteen feet under water and the tops projecting eight feet above the lake's surface at high water mark. In forests the line is marked by felling the timber for a rod wide and clearing away the underbrush. The work of cutting through the timbered swamps was very great, but it has been well done, and the boundary distinctly marked by the commissioners the whole distance from Michigan to Alaska.

"CONVENTION OF LONDON"

LINCOLN'S ANCESTRY.

Some Interesting Facts on the Subject by Samuel Shackford, Esq., of Winnetka, Ill.

To the Editor of the Chicago Tribune.

WINNETKA, Ill., March 25.—The Reading (Pa.) Times and Dispatch of March 17th, contains an article entitled "Lincoln's Father," a portion of which article reads as follows: "Mr. J. J. Neill, of Carthage, Mo., writing to William H. Sweeney, of Springfield, Ky., says: 'My brother, John G. Neill, of Pineville, Ky., has written me that you were interested [illegible] family while they lived in Kentucky. In the outset I would say that I am the only grandson of Nancy Lincoln, who married William Brumfield. She was a sister of Thomas Lincoln, father of the president. I have kept myself posted as to the traditions of the Lincoln family. They come from Lancashire, England, in an early day, perhaps as early as 1638, and settled in Pennsylvania.'"

Being descended of the Lincoln stock, I am interested in everything relating to the family, and have taken pains to inform myself as to the facts connected therewith. The first of the name who came to America was Thomas Lincoln, the weaver, in 1635. [illegible] Thomas Lincoln, the cooper, ancestor of Gen. Benjamin Lincoln, of the Revolutionary army, came in 1637. Thomas Lincoln, husbandman, and his brother Stephen, came in 1638. Daniel Lincoln about 1644. It is quite certain that they came from Norfolk county, England, and is positively known that they all settled in Hingham, Mass. All persons who bear the name of Lincoln in this country, and who trace back their pedigrees to the early settlers of New England, are descended from those whose names I have recited.

Thomas Lincoln, the weaver, was twice married, but left no children. He left by his will the larger part of his property to the children of his brother Samuel. The children of said brother Samuel were Mordecai, Mary, Thomas, Martha, Samuel, Jr., Daniel, Sarah and Rebecca.

Mordecai Lincoln, son of Samuel, had by his first wife Sarah Jones, Mordecai, Jr., born April 24, 1686; Abraham, born January 13, 1688, and Isaac, born October 24, 1691. The father was a blacksmith, worked for several years at his trade in the town of Hull, removed from there to Scituate, where he built a spacious house and was largely engaged in the iron trade.

Mordecai, Jr., the son of Mordecai and Sarah Jones Lincoln, removed from Scituate to Taunton, Mass. Thus far I have quoted from authentic records and family papers. It is also known that Mordecai, Jr., removed from Taunton, and there is strong circumstantial proof that he went to Pennsylvania. Mordecai and Abraham Lincoln, probably father and son, were taxed in Exeter, Berks county, Pa., in 1752, Thomas Lincoln taxed at Reading, Berks county, 1757, and John Lincoln taxed in Union township, Berks county, in 1758. Abraham Lincoln was representative from Berks county in the years 1782-'3, '4-'5.

Mr. David J. Lincoln, of Birdsboro, Pa., published on Sept. 24, 1879, an article stating that "Mordecai Lincoln, the great great-grandfather of President Lincoln, came from England and settled in Massachusetts where his wife died. About the year 1725 he left Massachusetts and settled in Exeter township, Berks county, Pennsylvania. He brought a son, John, with him, who was the great-grandfather of President Lincoln. John moved to Virginia, had a son, Abraham, who was the grandfather of President Lincoln."

Mr. David J. Lincoln, who is a great-grandson of Mordecai, of Exeter township, by a second wife, in a second article on his Lincoln ancestry, published in the Reading (Pa.) Times and Dispatch, Dec. 25, 1879, says: "My father, who died in 1806, aged 91, and my uncle Thomas, who died in 1804, always told us, in speaking of their grandfather, that Mordecai Lincoln came from England and settled first in Massachusetts." That Mordecai came from Massachusetts to Pennsylvania about the year 1725 there is not the slightest doubt; but if such a person actually came over from England to Massachusetts, where he must have lived for some time, and had a wife and family some record of the fact would be found in the town where he lived or the church to which he belonged.

Abraham Lincoln, the son of John Lincoln, who was the son of Mordecai Lincoln, of Exeter, Berks county, Pa., removed into Kentucky, and the late President Lincoln in 1848, when a member of congress, wrote to the Hon. Solomon Lincoln, of Hingham, Mass.: "My grandfather, whose name was Abraham Lincoln, the same as my own, went from Rockingham county, Virginia, to Kentucky about the year 1782, and two years after was killed by the Indians" (in Hardin county, Kentucky).

Among the descendants of Mordecai Lincoln in Massachusetts the names Mordecai, Thomas, Abraham, Isaac and Uriah were common, while those names are not common in any other of the Lincoln families, excepting among the descendants of Mordecai, of Pennsylvania, and this coincidence of names is strong circumstantial proof, at least, as to the identity of Mordecai, Jr., of Massachusetts, with Mordecai the ancestor of the president, and had Mr. David J. Lincoln's father and uncle stated that Mordecai Lincoln's grandfather—Samuel Lincoln, the weaver—came from England to Massachusetts, they doubtless would have been entirely correct. The descendants of Samuel Lincoln are numerous, embracing many distinguished persons, among whom were Governors Levi Lincoln, of Massachusetts, father and son, Enoch Lincoln, first governor of the state of Maine, who died in office A. D. 1829, and Abraham, president of the United States.

Is thorough in its Medicinal Action, and yet so agreeable to the taste that patrons often disregard our injunction to divide the lozenge into parts (say two doses) to meet their respective cases. At the outset it is especially essential to observe the directions closely till one becomes accustomed to its use—when mild action and the most satisfactory results are sure to follow.

Ladies and children, and those who dislike taking pills and nauseous medicines to secure cathartic action, are especially pleased with its agreeable qualities.

Try it once, and you will esteem it highly as a safe, pleasant, and effective remedy.
